From GAIA to you.

My name is GAIA. I was born 4.6 billion years ago, the third daughter of my father, the sun.

"GAIA, 1 Billion years from now you will be blessed with many children called "Life". Among them will be a creature who will evolve and become your partner".

He also said the creature would be given a trial in which the "Weak become the victims of the strong." My father believes a creature who survives the severe laws of nature will be best suited for being my partner.

After 1 billion years had passed, I was blessed with life. I raised them until they could survive independent of me. They are now called "Fish". The year must overcome the test my father gives.

"Don't give up! Overcome the trials and reach Eden. This is the purpose of your journey!"

I wished for a fish who would be different from all others. One with determination.

That fish is....You!

The purpose of this game is to survive the trials and enemies from each of the five different ages. You must defeat various creatures in order to evolve. It is you who decides how your creature will evolve and whether or not you will make it to "Eden" and win the game.
